Cops hunt for murder suspect

► Police unsure if homicide linked to Amber Kirwan's disappearance ► Schools near murder scene kept doors locked yesterday

Police are searching for a murderer in the shooting death of a 44-year-old Trenton man Tuesday.

Neighbours called 911 after hearing shots fired in the area of Mechanic Street around 8 p.m., said New Glasgow police Const. Ken MacDonald.

Officers found the victim dead outside a home. Police aren't releasing his name, but neighbours identified the man as Eddie Phalen, who had moved into a home on the street just a few months earlier with his wife and four children.

Police blocked off the street and checkpoints were set up on all entrances to Trenton. Police spoke to each driver, but MacDonald refused to comment on what they were looking for.

New Glasgow police turned over the lead on the murder investigation to the RCMP's major crime unit yesterday, saying they simply didn't have the resources to manage both the murder and the disappearance of missing teen Amber Kirwan, who hasn't been seen since Oct. 9.

The murder left area residents shaken. Tiffany MacDonald's father lives next door to the house where the murder occurred.

"I was at my boyfriend's place down the road when I heard the gunshots," she said.

The shot, she said, was "really loud." She added it sounded like a rifle shot.

"People here, the whole neighbourhood is very shocked. It's hard to grasp," she said. "First, Amber went missing and then all this happening at once — this kind of thing doesn't happen here. I always considered it a safe place."

An autopsy was scheduled in Halifax late yesterday.

Motion for fewer snow days gets frosty reception

A hot debate turned cold at last night's Halifax Regional School Board meeting as a motion that would have seen fewer snow days was defeated.

Member David Cameron put forth the motion, stating that schools should be open and staffed on snow-days except in the most extreme winter weather. The board was split, voting 4-4, and in the event of a tie, motions are defeated.

Cameron argued students who can walk or get a drive to school could use the day to play catch-up or get extra help.

But member Gina Gordon disagreed.

"As I see it, what meaningful work will be done on a day where half or less than half of the students show up?"

Other members brought up the issue of safety, noting the many students who may feel pressure to come to school even though it may not be safe to do so.

Suzanne Gray knows that dilemma all too well. Gray, the deputy student advisor for the HRSB, told the board she flipped her car into a ditch last year driving from Hammond Plains to Charles P Allen High School in Bedford on a day that buses were cancelled but the school remained open. ● ALY THOMSON

► Construction continues on the skating oval on the Halifax Common in this photo taken from the Atlantica Hotel yesterday.

Citizens weigh in on oval amenities

► Permanent oval position slightly shifted from Canada Games location for more space

ALEX BOULIER
@METRONEWS.CA

While construction continues on the new permanent skating oval on Halifax's North Common, city hall is seeking input on the surrounding buildings and amenities for the site.

But the scope of questions at a feedback session last night expanded beyond the patch of public space near Cogswell and North Park to a vision of the commons in their entirety.

Municipal staff solicited advice from the public at the Atlantica Hotel on what, exactly, they'd like to see around the Oval.

Construction on permanent amenities will not start until spring 2012. Staff will take the feedback gathered last night, as well as the results of an online survey through halifax.ca, to produce a report for further public consultation before delivering the final version to council next year.

Peter Bigelow, real property manager at the Halifax Regional Municipality, says the guiding principle for staff through the process is ensuring the oval is "as useful for as many people as (it) possibly can (be)" including a field in the middle of the track which can be used for ultimate frisbee or pickup football during the summer.

One question for Haligonians to mull over is what vision they have for the Central Common, located just south of the oval. Bigelow explained that city hall has directed staff to work on an overarching plan for the entire commons, stretching from Cunard Street down to South Street.

"This is just the thin edge of the wedge on that question about the Central Common," said

Have your say

► If you missed the session last night, you can still provide feedback on what shape you'd like to see the Oval take at halifax.ca.

Bigelow. "We just thought we'd get people thinking about it, rather than thinking about just the oval, think about the whole Common."

New airport hotel announced

A Quebec company is pouring $27 million into a new boutique hotel connected to the Halifax Stanfield International Airport.

Groupe Germain Hospitality announced yesterday it plans to open a 169-room hotel connected to the airport via an enclosed pedestrian walkway. The hotel will be built on the departures side, just off of the parkade.

Construction is set to begin soon, and the company expects to have the hotel operational by early 2013.

The hotel will be operated under ALT hotels, a banner of Groupe Germain Hospitality, which currently owns seven hotels in Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Calgary.

"We've been looking to make inroads into the dynamic Halifax market for some time now," said Christiane Germain, in a release.

Southwest Properties and New Castle Hotels had previously planned a more than 170-room hotel for the site — but that deal fell through in early 2010.

"(Groupe Germain) came forward a few months later," said Peter Spurway, spokesman for the HIAA.

"We've been looking forward to having a hotel attached to the terminal for quite a long time. So we're tickled."

Toronto police have released a photo of a murder suspect who may be on his way to Halifax.

Darnell St. Clair Wright, also known as Darnell Grant (pictured) is wanted in the Toronto murder

The 32-year-old is accused of fatally shooting Beals during Toronto's Nuit Blanche event earlier this month. Wright is described as brown, 5-foot-10, 180 pounds, with black hair and tattoos on his neck. Police have urged the public to not approach the suspect, who is considered armed and dangerous.

Charges laid in summer arson case

Police charged two 21-year-old men from Dartmouth and Middle Sackville with arson and mischief this week stemming from an incident last summer.

"I'm elated," said Robin Barrett, owner of Barrett's Firewood, about an arrest being made in the case.

The RCMP and HRP said the suspects set a truck on fire at Barrett's Lumber in Beaver Bank around 2 a.m. on June 12.

When police and fire fighters arrived, the vehicle was engulfed in flames.

Firefighters extinguished the blaze, but the truck was extensively damaged.

"The people who did this are from outside the community," said Barrett. "So I'm really optimistic that we won't see anything of the magnitude that we've seen in the last couple of years."

The residents in Beaver Bank aren't strangers to vandalism. Two community centres in the area were hit by arsonists in September and October last year.

RCMP spokesman Const. Sott MacRae said it is unknown if the incidents are related to the truck fire.

The accused will appear in Dartmouth Provincial Court Dec. 14.

Protesters surprised by eviction notice

► Grand Parade needed for Remembrance Day ceremonies ► 'We're in no hurry. That's why we've given them lots of time': Mayor Peter Kelly

► About 70 people have been camping out in the square in front of city hall for the past two weeks. In reply to the mayor's eviction notice yesterday, protest spokesman Stuart Caldwell said, "It's not impossible to move, but we're just really more enthused about staying here because of the symbolic nature of the parade square. You can see the banks behind us."

Occupy Nova Scotia protesters mulled their options yesterday after getting an eviction notice to leave the public square in front of Halifax City Hall.

Mayor Peter Kelly wants the group to move elsewhere by the early evening of Nov. 6 so the Grand Parade can be cleaned up and readied for ceremonies marking Remembrance Day and Kristallnacht.

Protest spokesman Stuart Caldwell said the mayor's directive came as a surprise and they haven't worked out a response yet.

"We're sort of waiting to see how this is going to play out. We've discussed it at great lengths and at this point we are exploring our options," Caldwell said.

He said the protesters want to speak to city officials to see if a compromise can be reached over the patchwork collection of tents pitched in front of city hall. About 70 people have been camping out peacefully in the square for the past two weeks.

Kelly said the city needs the Grand Parade to meet obligations to veterans for Remembrance Day and for the Dignity Day Ceremony on Nov. 9, which marks Kristallnacht, also known as the Night of the Broken Glass, during which at least 2,000 people died in 1938.

He has offered the protesters space on the Halifax Commons, a large park that's about a 20-minute walk away.

Jean Marie Deveau, president of the Nova Scotia-Nunavut Command of the Royal Canadian Legion, said she hopes the protesters take the mayor up on his offer.

"The protest is very peaceful and I'm sure that they will take their tents and go over to the Commons out of respect for the veterans," she said.

"I really can't see them staying there with their tents because we'll have about 5,000 people there."

Deveau said they would likely have to find a different venue if the tents remain.

"It's not a viable option because of the considerable preparation work that's involved. The sheer logistics of moving people.... Grand Parade is not that big a space."

'No signs of foul play' in skydiver's death: Police

The body of a Halifax native who went missing from his home in eastern Utah almost four months ago has been found by a hiker walking in a rocky area on the outskirts of the town of Moab.

David Brown, a profes-

His body was discovered by the hiker on Oct. 23 near cliffs surrounding the town.

Brown, 37, was a U.S. national champion skydiver, a skydiving instructor and a member of the Team Mandrin skydiving team.

Members of Brown's skydiving team, family members and power paragliders conducted a volunteer search for two weeks after he was reported missing.

Moab police said they are awaiting autopsy reports and add "we have found no signs of foul play."

The dark world of Mexico's cops

► Policing in Monterrey, Mexico, has become risky business ► This year so far, 100 officers have been killed
► Metro delves into the world of Mexico's law enforcers and spends a day with them to learn how they work

METRO WORLD NEWS IN MONTERREY, MEXICO

Being a cop in Monterrey is considered a high-risk profession. The police in the capital of Mexico's northeastern state of Nuevo León receive constant death threats from drug-gang members and then do battle with them on the streets. Some extort money from citizens to make up for their meagre wages. Others receive payments from traffickers and become a halcón, or hawk, a kind of cartel informant.

If a cop doesn't comply with warring narcotic cartels, he'll be targeted and removed. So far this year, 100 law enforcers have been killed either by gunfire or grenade explosions.

At 7 p.m., we join a squadron in a local police station in downtown Monterrey. The team of three men and a woman begin patrolling Vista Hermosa, the Jewish quarter of the city until 7 a.m. At the doors to a convenience store, the guards stand on duty while eating some snacks. They carry high-calibre weapons and are protected by bulletproof vests. They drive an amped-up pickup truck.

Drinking on the street, grand and petty theft, damage to personal and commercial property and carrying weapons are the most common crimes in one night. On a quiet night, this station receives up to seven complaints of grand theft auto.

Back at the convenience store, we notice that the law enforcement officials are calm and chat among themselves. And yet, clientele at the convenience store look restless and agitated by the presence of the police, undoubtedly due to the bad image they have earned over the years, either because they are easy targets for criminals to shoot at, or because they are easy pawns for drug traffickers to exploit and use.

Last February, Homero Guillermo Salcido Treviño, head of intelligence for Nuevo León state, was found dead, his body in a truck that caught fire in the centre of Monterrey — after he was kidnapped by two fellow officers.

"The worst thing is you do not know which of your colleagues is selling you out to the bad guys," said one of Treviño's relatives.

In truth, it appears what comes out of your pocket could be the real difference between life or death, as we found out in our night in the police station's jail cells.

Field notes

A NIGHT IN THE CELLS

From the first minute I knew I was going into the local police station in downtown Monterrey my nerves went wild. By the back entrance, prisoners arrive, mostly for minor offences or positive alcohol tests.

Out of a group of two men and one woman, all of whom seem to be friends, one man is free to go. The 30-something is told his friends could be set free if they each pay $150. If not, 12 hours in the cells.

Beside the front door of the police station is an ATM from where he could get the money.

The police do not lose sight of the guy. He pays the fine; however, the police ask him to accompany them. They go down to the basement.

There, another officer asks for an increase in payment to speed up the release of his friends.

"How much is it?" the guy asks. "How much do you have?" the policeman replies.

The young man offers $37, but the police say they will not accept anything less than $225.

Again the police escort him to the ATM and ask if he has more money.

The man says his account has reached the limit and he can't withdraw more cash.

In the end, the 24-year-old girl is set free. It takes two hours for the second guy to be released.

EDITOR'S NOTE: FOR SECURITY REASONS, METRO MEXICO DOES NOT USE REPORTER BYLINES ON STORIES ON THE WAR ON DRUGS

Police corruption

1 In the San Pedro district of Monterrey, those arrested for drunk driving offences can accelerate the processing of their case by paying law enforcers a small fee. Foreign nationals, however, are exempt from this processing to avoid diplomatic confrontations and are released immediately.

2 Up to $150 in cash is what detainees have to pay upfront to avoid a night in the cells.

3 While in some municipalities in the Monterrey metropolitan area drivers can get rid of the penalties for drunk driving for up to $8, bribing a San Pedro traffic official becomes an impossible mission.

4 Out of 100 times police filed a report, 10.3 times the citizens paid a fee. On average they pay up to $13. More than 200 million acts of corruption reportedly occurred last year at all government levels, costing Mexican citizens around $2.4 billion.

A Winnipeg mom met prospective new sex-trade employees for her brothel through her son, who befriended them after working with them at a telephone chat line for troubled youth, a Manitoba court has heard.

Police and justice officials uncovered this and other surprising details about the city's sex-trade after being tipped to probe activities at the now-shuttered bordello on a quiet Wolseley street in June 2009.

"She preyed on no one. What she did was illegal, yes. But she tried to provide a safe environment for those who chose to participate."

A 48-year-old mother of two pleaded guilty yesterday to running a bawdy house. The Crown dropped other charges, including a count of corrupting children. The criminal case against the woman's ex-husband was also quashed.

A publication ban prevents publishing any information identifying people at the heart of the high-profile case, including the woman's children, who were 11 and 17 at the time of her arrest and lived in the home. A system was in place to ensure the younger child wasn't there when clients visited, court heard.

Following two weeks of surveillance, a police raid led to the seizure of business records showing the woman employed upwards of 12 sex-trade workers across various periods starting in early 2008.

The records included schedules of workers' various shifts, along with financial ledgers and Internet chat logs.

Speaking at a news conference in Quebec City, Public Security Minister Robert Dutil yesterday refused to rule out legal action among his options.

Italy lashed by killer floods

Torrential rains have lashed Italy from its northern Alps to the southern island of Sicily, causing flash floods that killed at least nine people and left six others missing, officials said yesterday. Roads and bridges were swept away and several towns in Liguria were cut off from the outside world. Rome was under a flood alert.

Earthquake wipes out one man's family

Murat Sonmez's mother, wife and four daughters were crushed to death in their Ercis, Turkey, home by the 7.2-magnitude earthquake, leaving him so distraught he found it difficult to speak.

While media coverage has centred on tales of against-the-odds rescues including a two-week-old baby girl who was pulled alive from the rubble, most stories of the trapped have ended the way that Sonmez knows, with death and unfathomable pain for those left behind.

"I was not at home," Sonmez said, lapsing into silence at times yesterday. "God gave them, God took them away. I can't find anything to say."

"I can't describe my pain," he said as he stood by a levelled four-story apartment building.

He listed the dead: 32-year-old wife Meral, four daughters — two-year-old Nisa Nur, seven-year-old Meryem, 12-year-old Asli and 15-year-old Meral — and his 65-year-old mother, Hatice. They lived on the second floor, above some businesses. The third and fourth floors were occupied by Sonmez's brother and father, who managed to escape.

Pumpkins dumped onto freeway

Road workers found themselves plowing pulp after a truck dumped a load of pumpkins on a Detroit-area freeway during the morning commute.

Hundreds of pumpkins were scattered yesterday across several lanes of traffic on a highway in Farmington Hills, Mich.

Many of the pumpkins were pulverized as drivers passed through and WWJ-AM reports snow plows had to be used to clear what remained of pumpkins from the roadway.

Video from a traffic camera showed motorists slowly making their way through the pre-Halloween mess.

Michigan State Police Sgt. James Kemp tells the Detroit Free Press that one motorist had a smashed windshield, but no injuries were reported.

CONFESSION: I HAVE A THING FOR THE GOP

HE SAYS ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE
METRO

The U.S. has been a beacon for millions of people, but I'm probably the only person who's ever wanted to head there because of Republican presidential debates.

Yes, America's Grand Old Party is calling and I'm starting to listen.

Now before you have me maple-syruped and feathered, let me be clear: I love Canada. Anne Murray's as sexy as ever, peameal bacon wrapped in dulce and washed down with Clamato still hits the spot, and hearing the opening strains of "I'm a lumberjack and I'm OK" always brings a tear to the eye.

It's just that I find the Republicans — and the heartland that supports them — deeply alluring because, well, because they seem kind of nuts. It's a way-out foreign culture, every bit as exotic as those far-flung reaches of the globe I clamour to visit.

"So though my gut reaction is to roll my eyes or worse, I instead want to learn the ways of this bizarre culture."

Canadians have a tendency to think of our southern neighbours as merely heavier, prouder, louder versions of ourselves — sort of Canucks dialed up to 11. But the Republican presidential debates remind me how wrong that is.

Usually, American TV misleads us, since it's made by liberal places that most urban Canadians find easy to swallow, like New York and Hollywood.

Watching the American TV programs I did growing up, I believed that any young American tadpole (The Muppet Show) can admit to being gay (Ellen) but continue movin' on up (The Jeffersons) until he can afford a New York loft apartment that would cost more than the Iraq invasion (Friends).

On most American TV, the U.S. seems like Canada with better temperatures and thinner people.

But the Republican debates show me a culture so different I barely comprehend it. People applaud the mention of the death penalty. Nobody seems to know what taxes are for. Rick Santorum is seen as a normal person.

This is a place I want to learn about. If this were any other continent, I'd be deeply interested. I'd want to understand.

So though my gut reaction is to roll my eyes or worse, I instead want to learn the ways of this bizarre culture.

I want to see heartland America — more Jerry Falwell, less Jerry Seinfeld. More Bible Belt, which holds up the bristles of the nation. Less San Francisco, where pants are optional.

This will require research, so I plan to watch a lot of bad television, eat free-range beef and drink beer, as befits my current, close-minded understanding of heartland America.

Come to think of it, I've been researching to be an American all my life.

I'm gonna melt right in.

Cudos and a big "Well Done" to the CPC for living up to their promise to rid us of the ineffective and expensive long-gun registry. Hopefully this is only step one in the process of ridding Canada of other such failed and failing social engineering projects. It's a refreshing change to have some common sense coming out of Ottawa.

MR. KEN DECARLE
GABRIOLA ISLAND, B.C.

So the government introduces a bill to scrap the long-gun registry because "we don't want laws that target law-abiding citizens."

But Bill C-11, to amend the Copyright Act, does exactly that — by making it illegal to circumvent digital locks that prevent copy owners from exercising their rights under the Act. At least gun owners currently get to use their property legally — C-11 will make it illegal to watch your own imported DVDs (because you have to bypass the region encoding TPM to do so).

WEIRD NEWS

Earth invaded by Lego man

The sight of an eight-foot-tall Lego man evokes the paranormal and the unexplained, according to beachgoers on the Siesta Key Beach.

The statue, with the grammatically incorrect phrase "No real than you are" written on its chest, was discovered early Tuesday morning in Sarasota, Fla., according to the Daily Mail.

"I figured he probably fell down from up above somewhere," one man told Tampa Bay 10 News.

"I kind of think it was from the UFO people," a female passerby told the news station.

The Washington Post reported Ego Leonard, the name on the back of the statue, could also be the artist responsible for the prank. The Sarasota Herald-Tribune emailed the artist for a comment, and his reply came back written as if it was from the Lego man himself. ● METRO

► Consumer confidence hits lowest level since 2009, points indicate

Consumer confidence has dipped to levels last reported two and a half years ago during the depths of the recession, as Canadians grapple with higher everyday costs, record debt and fears of major downturn.

The Conference Board of Canada said yesterday that its index of consumer confidence fell 3.3 points to 71.8. The index, based on a survey conducted this month, is measured against a reading of 100 in 2002. A separate survey by the Royal Bank of Canada garnered the same results.

Both come as Canadians deal with higher prices for gasoline, food and clothing, record debt spurred by ultra-low interest rates, and stock market turmoil that has eroded nest eggs amid signs of slowing economic growth. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The idea of klezmer music reminds me of stories about the hardships of the old country featuring Bubby, Zaida, violins and bowels of borscht.

So when I first heard about a seven-piece klezmer band from Halifax, I was intrigued.

Gypsophilia, a band made of seven individual artists thrown together, as described by guitarist Ross Burns, first performed by chance at the 2004 Halifax Jazz Festival.

"It was just supposed to be one gig but enough people were into it, asking when we were going to play again so it started to seem as though we actually had a band," he said. "One of the things that comes with playing together is maturity and a better sense of strengths and weaknesses."

Seven years later, and two albums and an ECMA to boot, it seems Gypsophilia proves good things don't happen by accident.

Merging seven, individual artists is no easy feat, however Burns admits it's the variety of talent that provides the group with its versatility.

"With a band of seven people there are a lot of different backgrounds represented, so as far as what people bring to our sound, it creates a flow and mixture," he said.

Pulling his weight in the group, Burns taps into his background to inspire his composition Montreal, found on their latest album Constellation.

"I thought of my grandparents in 1936 taking their honeymoon road-trip to Montreal. It creates a romantic, nostalgic image of the city from that time," Burns said.

"Instrumental music starts with an emotion — you could create a piece of music and it could just be a musical exercise but more interesting to me is that it all starts from a certain, emotional idea."

- How does the Versace for H&M 'greatest hits' collection stack up against the real thing?
- Metro's Kenya Hunt compares the high street clothes, which are based on the luxury brand's past collections, with the expensive originals.

The archives for less

When you consider that they all tend to follow the same formula, it's hard to believe that collaborations between famous designers and mass market brands can still generate the level of excitement that Donatella Versace's new collection for H&M has.

Each launch, without fail, comes with the shiny

'Greatest hits!' label attached.

But let's be honest; shoppers want dresses that scream designer, not chintzy knockoff — as in,

"Are people staring at me because they think this is the real thing or because my skirt looks flammable?" Frankly, there haven't been a whole lot of high-low collaborations that have struck the right balance.

So with that in mind, we compare H&M's latest with a few standouts from the Versace archives.

1

This dress, which is straight from the SS'12 show, has that "just off the runway" feeling. The H&M version may not have the leather strips and asymmetry that the catwalk dress does, but it impressively nails the maximal, studded to the Gods look of the original.

2

Donatella replaces the original's Greek key pattern — a trademark of the Versace house that appears on other items in the H&M collection — with graphic hearts. The patterned fringing and cut-out shoulders are just right.

3

These tropical trousers will make a colourful alternative to the festive cocktail dress for your office holiday party. That said, the H&M incarnation out-Versace's the Versace pants in loudness, even if they are missing the little baroque patterned trim at the hem.

On paper, the two are nearly identical. The flashy buckle and gilt waistband are there. But the H&M belt may turn silver after a few too many wears.

The grade

As far as greatest hits collections go, the H&M line feels more like new Versace than old. But it does a great job of recreating the brand's money-is-no-object look by steering clear of fancy fabrics that are impossible to re-do on the cheap and sticking with the fun details that make the garments stand out in the first place. That said, maybe just steer clear of the gold accessories.

Fiction to fashion

TATTOO LINE

Swedish fashion retailer H&M says it will release a collection of clothes inspired by the rebellious character Lisbeth Salander in Stieg Larsson's bestselling crime novel The Girl With the Dragon Tattoo. The fashion chain says the collection is designed by designer Trish Summerville, who created Salander's outfits in David Fincher's upcoming U.S. film versions of Larsson's three-book crime series.

Sometimes, meat isn't your only leftover. If you have a pot of leftover mashed potatoes, try these Mashed Potato Topped Jumbo Meatloaves.

Preparation:

1 In bowl, mash potatoes and ¼ cup (50 mL) of the broth; set aside.

2 In skillet over medium heat, melt butter and cook shallots, garlic, pepper, oregano and thyme for about 3 mins. or until softened. Let cool slightly.

3 In bowl, combine egg, remaining broth, breadcrumbs, cheese, salt and pepper. Add beef and shallot mixture and mix with until combined.

4 Divide mix among 6 sprayed jumbo muffin tins and press down to flatten. Top each with about 1/3 cup (75 mL) of mashed potatoes. Bake in 375 F (190 C) oven 35 mins. or until meat thermometer reaches an internal temperature of 160 F (75 C) and meat is no longer pink inside.

5 Sauce: Return skillet to medium high heat and melt butter. Cook mushrooms, thyme, salt, pepper 10 mins. Stir in flour and cook, 1 min. Pour in broth and cream and bring to a simmer. Simmer 3 mins. or until slightly thickened. Serve with meatloaves. EMILY RICHARDS IS A PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND A TV CELEBRITY CHEF. FOR MORE, VISIT EMILYRICHARDSCOOKS.CA

Fall for sophisticated pops of colour

► Spicy autumn colours are all the trend ► Add small kicks of deep purple, brick red, rich pinks or burnt orange

As we prepare to welcome fall into our homes, we can officially leave the light, breezy tones of summer behind and turn to the deeper shades of the upcoming winter season.

The classic colours associated with autumn are burnt oranges, brick reds, dark plums and deep cranberries.

Bright, crisp colours feel less fashionable now and the colours of fall are dramatic, strong and exotically sophisticated.

Some may recognize these trendy tones as those that defined decor of the '70s and '80s (remember rust corduroy sofas and E-ZBrick faux walls?) but what goes around rarely comes back the same way.

Deep reds and rusty oranges have reappeared in more formal textures like silk, rather than the casual corduroy and heavy fabrics of their past lives.

Warm greys and cool taupes are still the ultimate neutral, but pops of spiced colour on a focal point or accessory are fun ways to bring in colour without a major commitment.

Adding small kicks of deep purple, brick red, rich pinks or dark orange to an accent wall, patterned pillow, glass lamp, or two side chairs in a living room can make a big impact with the trends.

The best way to incorporate the sophisticated drama of fall's hottest hues is to contain it to small areas around your space.

► Kilim upholstered sofa adds fall's rich purple and red in an exotic way. Kilim Sofa, West Elm Paint the inside walls of a coat closet in a bold, high-gloss colour and get a big burst of shine every time you open the door.

Perk up forgotten spaces like small ceiling areas in an entryway or powder room and add punch by simply painting your linen closet door a strong trend colour.

Beyond walls and ceilings, furniture can also be updated with a dash of drama.

The interior of an armoire or china cabinet could be painted or wallpapered to leave just a hint of colour and texture peeking through.

► Benjamin Moore's Rhubarb is fall's go-to fashion colour.

High-gloss provides sheen and shine, allowing hits of colour to really stand out while adding glamour.

Consider reupholstering your dining room seat cushions a rich purple, rust or cranberry to add a surprise of colour when dining.

► An accent wall painted Benjamin Moore's Rhubarb can warm up a neutral space.

► Add colour to your space with exotic accessories like genuine Kantha throws, Pottery Barn.

The home before and after the renovation – a dramatic difference.

MOVING ON UP

RENOVATION LEAVES COUPLE 'THRILLED WITH RESULT'

After four months renting a basement apartment while the west end halifax home they bought in 2004 underwent a major renovation, Natalie MacLellan and Dave Henry were happy to move back in september.

"We're thrilled with the result," says MacLellan.

Originally built in 1949, the small storey-and-a-half home had 1,200 square feet of living space. The main floor consisted of a living room, kitchen, dining room, spare bedroom and bathroom, the upper floor had two small bedrooms and the basement was unfinished.

Today the home boasts 1,620 square feet of living space, based on a blueprint drafted by Atlantic

Home Designs. "The main floor was gutted down to the studs, and many walls were taken out," says Andrew Watson, the owner of Whitestone Developments and the journeyman carpenter in charge of the renovation.

"The focal point of the design was the new kitchen." An 8' x 11' addition was created on one side of the home to make a kitchen area more than twice the original size.

A new front deck and foyer were added to the front of the house. Across the hall from the dining room is the new "great room"; it's four feet longer than the original design and includes a fireplace with a wood-stove insert. Off the great room is a new multi-purpose room. Two French doors lead into this space, which is used as an office and contains a desk, bookshelves and a pull-out couch. The main-floor bathroom, which was gutted and reinstalled, has a new toilet, vanity and walk-in shower.

A new oak hardwood staircase leads to the renovated second storey, which features three bedrooms and a full bath. The home's exterior was transformed by adding a deck, peaks and windows. Finally, blue PVC shake siding, along with white Cape Cod wood siding, was installed. "We achieved our goal, which was to update our house but keep its post-war character," says MacLellan.

GREEN LIVING

The renovated home now has the following energy-efficient upgrades:

- new double glazed LowE/Argon-filled windows
- low-flow faucets and low-flush toilet

- low-toxicity paints, varnishes and adhesives, which produce no off-gassing
- recycled cellulose insulation in the attic
- energy efficient CFL light bulbs
- Energy Star refrigerator, dishwasher and washer/dryer

KEEP INDOOR AIR FRESH THIS WINTER

Winter months bring everyone indoors and the cold temperatures outside make air exchange difficult when you don't want to open the windows.

With reduced fresh air circulation, moisture and pollutants can be trapped inside your home, which is especially irritating for those who suffer from asthma or allergies. Improve the indoor air quality and manage moisture in your home this winter by addressing these common problems.

Have a plan to manage moisture.

Indoor moisture can accumulate in the winter months, causing mould to form. If your home has common signs of moisture problems, such as a musty smell, condensation on windows, white powdery stains on concrete floors and discolouration on walls, ceilings or floors, consider the following action:

- Use proper ventilation, such as a fan vented to the outdoors or opening a window, when showering or cooking with a gas range or oven.
- Limit the use of humidifiers and set up a dehumidifier in damp areas inside the home, especially the basement.

Install insulation that reduces airborne moisture.

Quality insulation can help regulate temperature, moisture and overall health by preventing mould growth in the home. Installing an insulation or air barrier product like Icynene can contribute to better indoor air quality by creating a complete air-seal minimizing airborne moisture. Look for an insulation that:

- Doesn't off-gas into the indoor environment and is HFC-free and PBDE-free;
- Minimizes the entry of outdoor allergens and pollutants into your home;
- Is not a food source for mould.

Reduce use of indoor pollutants.

Indoor air pollutants that may not bother you in the warmer months can accumulate in the winter and deplete air quality. Decrease pollutants in the home by:

- Limiting sources of volatile organic compounds (VOCs) found in common household products, such as cleansers and paint.
- Opt for products in spray bottles rather than aerosols, as aerosols produce a finer mist that is easily inhaled.

You can learn more about the role insulation can play in improving indoor air quality online at icynene.com.

Areas very likely to have arsenic in well water. These areas have geological material known to contain elevated levels of arsenic. Well water frequently exceeds national drinking water guidelines for arsenic.

Areas that may have arsenic in well water. Water in these areas have minor or infrequent occurrences of arsenic that generally do that exceed national drinking water guidelines, but testing and treatment, if needed, are still recommended.

This map is based on data available as of April 2005

TEST REGULARLY TO ENSURE SAFE WELL WATER

ARSENIC HEALTH RISKS

Arsenic has been recognized as a poison since ancient times. Long-term exposure to high levels of it in drinking water can cause cancer of the bladder, lung, skin, kidney and liver. It can also negatively affect heart function, damage blood vessels and cause tremors, headaches, numbness and skin problems.

When Tracey Giordani bought a house in upper sackville in 2006, her bank requested that she test her drilled well for coliform bacteria, which she did.

But it didn't occur to Giordani, the owner of independent water testing and treatment company Evolution Water, to test for arsenic until two years later.

"At that time, several clients in my area were asking me to test their drilled wells for arsenic, which was a red flag," says Giordani. "When I tested my well water, it was just under the acceptable level for arsenic." She treated the water to purify it and tests it every year, a process she became even more vigilant about after having daughter Kayte in 2010.

In fact, drilled wells in and around Mount Uniacke, Upper and Middle Sackville, Beaverbank and Sambro tend to test positive for arsenic. "Homeowners should know that while boiling water kills coliform bacteria, it actually concentrates arsenic," says Giordani.

About 46 per cent of Nova Scotians get water from their own wells. "For people with private wells, the only way to make sure their water is safe is to test it regularly," says Giordani, who recommends yearly testing. "Just because you can't see, taste or smell anything strange doesn't mean there isn't a problem."

Evolution Water also tests for coliform bacteria, uranium, iron, lead and fluoride.

Evolution Water's motto is Purity is Our Passion. "When I test well water that is tainted, I'll recommend a system that will ensure safe drinking water and clean water for bathing, washing dishes and doing laundry," says Giordani. "It's great peace of mind for homeowners to know their water is safe."

Evolution Water is offering 15 per cent off well water testing until Oct. 31. For more information, visit Evowater.ca or call 252-3363.

TOP 10 WAYS IN WINTER TO MAXIMIZE INDOOR COMFORT

Home-heating bills can pack a punch into household budgets as Canadians prepare for the cold winter months ahead. Hiring a licensed contractor to inspect your furnace and clean your filters is a top priority before the temperature dips down, but be sure to consider the following elements that help maximize indoor comfort when the weather outdoors becomes too much to bear.

With frosty temperatures on the horizon, The Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Institute of Canada (HRAI) offers 10 simple suggestions to help Canadian homeowners make the most of their home heating system and keep the costly energy bills at bay during the colder months.

1. AUDIT DOESN'T HAVE TO BE A BAD WORD.

Have a licensed professional conduct an energy audit of your home to help assess the efficiency of your current heating system. This audit will show you how and where your home loses energy, as well as it will help you save on your monthly bills and increase your home's re-sale value. An official ecoEnergy evaluation may also qualify you for some healthy government incentives to make energy-saving home improvements.

2. YOUR HEATER NEEDS A JACK-ET, TOO.

Wrap your hot water heater in an insulating jacket, preventing standby heat losses.

3. SPRING CLEANING.

Clean or replace filters on forced-air furnaces every three months.

4. LET THE LIGHT IN.

Open your curtains or blinds so the light from the sun can help heat rooms that receive direct sunlight.

5. INSTALL A HUMIDIFIER.

Moist air feels warmer than dry air and can help you feel comfortable even though your thermostat is set at a lower temperature. Hire a licensed contractor to install the humidifier to ensure it is done correctly.

6. BOOK A TUNE UP.

Schedule an annual tune-up for your boiler, furnace or heat pump to ensure that your heating equipment is operating at peak efficiency. Visit the HRAI website to locate the appropriate professional in your area.

7. TURN IT DOWN.

Install a programmable thermostat that can be set to lower the temperature when you are away from the home or at nighttime, helping your family save on energy costs. Hire a licensed professional to install one of these thermostats so you can start saving on your monthly energy bills.

8. PICK YOUR FAVOURITES.

Close off heating vents in rooms that are not regularly occupied to maximize the heat in those rooms that are used most.

9. DON'T LET HEAT ESCAPE UNNECESSARILY.

Keep your doors and windows shut and make sure they are properly sealed so you keep the heat in when you need it.

10. CLEAR THE WAY.

Make sure all of your heating vents and baseboards are clear of obstructions and furniture to allow for maximum output from your heater.

You can find a licensed heating contractor in your area who can help ensure your indoor comfort is maximized (and your energy bills minimized) this season online at hrai.ca.

HALIFAX NATIVE MIKE SQUIRES, A RECEIVER FOR THE ACADIA AXEMEN, HAS BEEN NAMED CANADIAN INTERUNIVERSITY SPORT FOOTBALL PLAYER OF THE WEEK.

THE FOURTH-YEAR ATHLETE CAUGHT EIGHT BALLS FOR 166 YARDS AND FOUR TOUCHDOWNS TO HELP THE AXEMEN CLINCH FIRST IN ATLANTIC UNIVERSITY SPORT WITH A 41-28 VICTORY OVER THE SAINT MARY'S HUSKIES LAST SATURDAY.

Mooseheads show 'firepower' to Armada

Once the Halifax Mooseheads shook off their bus lags, there was no stopping them.

The Mooseheads, who bussed from Halifax to Montreal earlier this week, bounced back from a 4-0 second-period deficit by scoring a whopping seven unanswered goals en route to a 7-5 victory over the Blainville-Boisbriand Armada.

"Obviously we don't want to see a game like that every night, but it's nice to know we have some firepower and the ability to come back," said Mooseheads general manager Cam Russell.

It's the seventh win in the past eight games for the eighth-place Mooseheads, 10-5.

The Mooseheads scored four goals in a six-minute, 57-second span in the second period to even things up, with over-age captain Cameron Critchlow setting up Alexandre Cote and Travis Randell to start it off.

Critchlow finished with a goal and three assists and Russell credited his line with Randell and Brad Cuzner for getting the Mooseheads back in the game.

"The three of those guys played extremely well," Russell said. "They got us out of it when we were down — they never stopped — and the other guys followed their lead."

Cote had a goal and two assists, centre Brent Andrews a goal and an assist, and rookie defenceman Josh Desmond three assists. Netting the other singles were Alexandre Grenier, Trey Lewis and Nathan MacKinnon, while rookie goalie Zach Fucale made 21 saves.

The Mooseheads have back-to-back games against the Val-d'Or Foreurs on Friday and Saturday to wrap up the three-day road trip to Quebec.

Big win gives Huskies confidence

▶ Saint Mary's beats St. F.X. to avenge loss in last year's AUS semis

MATTHEW WUEST
@METRONEWS.CA

Don't write the Saint Mary's Huskies off just yet.

The Huskies, a perennial contender and the 2010 national champion, shook off a sluggish 1-3 start to the Atlantic University Sport men's hockey season last night, earning a tidy 5-3 victory over the nationally-eighth-ranked St. Francis Xavier X-Men at the Forum.

It was a win that was as important as it was impressive for a young team featuring eight freshmen and six sophomores.

"It's definitely good for our egos and good for our confidence," said Huskies rookie defenceman Michael D'Orazio, who scored what stood to be the game-winner on a two-man power play in the second period.

"We played a great game."

Returnees Brad Smith, Chris MacKinnon and Colby Pridham scored early before rookies D'Orazio and Josh Domingues stepped up with key goals later. Fellow freshmen Gerrard Grant and Jamie Doornbosch picked up two assists apiece and rookie stopper Anthony Peters made 26 saves.

Youthful contributions like last night's are critical given all-Canadian losses of Andrew Hotham and David MacDonald on defence as well as captain Justin Munden and ex-NHLer Mike Danton up front.

"They're first-year guys but they play like they're in third or fourth year," said Huskies fifth-year centre Cam Fergus. "We lost a couple of key players and those guys are coming in and doing the job for us so far. We just hope it continues."

Dartmouth paddler helps bring home gold

Dartmouth's Una Lounder was part of Canada's first gold-medal-winning sprint canoe-kayak team at the Pan American Games in Guadalajara, Mexico, yesterday.

Louder teamed up with fellow Nova Scotian Alexa Irvin of Kentville, Kristin Gauthier of Ottawa, and Kathleen Fraser of Oakville, Ont., to finish the K-4 500 metres in one minute, 37.724 seconds edging host Mexico at 1:37.799. Cuba was third at 1:39.105.

"It was a really good race for us," Louder said. "At the end, we weren't even sure if we had won, and we were so excited when we saw it was gold. I raced in the K-4 last year at the Pan Am championships and finished out of the medals, so I'm happy with this result."

In the women's K-1 500, Emilie Fournel of Lachine, Que., celebrated her 25th birthday by qualifying directly for Saturday's final, winning her heat in 1:57.386. The gold medalist in Saturday's race will earn her country a quota spot for the 2012 Summer Olympics.

Paddling action at the Games continues through Sunday. Other Nova Scotians competing are Ryan Cochrane, Richard Dalton, Andrew Russell and Connor Taras.

This was the first Series washout since 2008 at Philadelphia.

► That year, Tampa Bay and the Phillies were tied in the sixth inning when rain and snow turned the field gap is the longest at the World Series since 1989, when the Bay Area earthquake left the Athletics and Giants idle for 11 days.

"It's just a rainout, that's it," Texas star Michael Young said. "I don't know if people think we're going to sit in our hotel rooms all night biting our nails. We're going to get something to eat, get some rest and be ready to go."

After a damp season and post-season, Major League Baseball announced the decision about 4½ hours before the scheduled first pitch. At the time, no drops had fallen at the ballpark.

into a quagmire, forcing a suspension.

► It rained the next day, too, and the game finally resumed two days later, with the Phillies winning to take the crown.
► Because of the debate about how to handle that situation, MLB adopted a rule a few months later mandating that any post-season game stopped in progress would be resumed at the point of suspension, rather than being postponed and starting over.

"I'm not even sure why they cancelled it," Cardinals outfielder Lance Berkman said. "This is better than the weather for Game

Busch Stadium has had weather woes in the past. In 2006, Game 4 between Detroit and the Cardinals was called.

Rain has hovered over the majors all year with more than 50 washouts, baseball's highest total since 1997. The bad weather actually started before opening day, as the Milwaukee Brewers and Reds worked out in snow flurries on March 31.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Avoid other people's quarrels today because you could find yourself drawn in deeper than you'd like.
♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 It's not like you to seek approval but for some reason you crave the support of partners today.
♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 At some point today, you'll realize you must stop what you are doing and reassess priorities. Be selective.
♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You don't have to be cynical today but you do have to watch out for Number One — that's you.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 You don't have to face each and every situation alone. There are people you can turn to for support and advice.
♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Don't let your feelings get the better of you today. Above all, don't get taken in by a tale of woe.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 A lot is going on in your world but don't let it distract you from your main aim: improving your cash flow.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 It's OK to be angry with someone who has let you down but it's not OK to let it gnaw at you relentlessly.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Your confidence may be at a low ebb but it is only a passing phase.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You don't have to go along with what other people suggest. You have a mind of your own.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 The Sun in Scorpio at this time of year can either make or break your reputation, depending on how clear your aims are.
♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Any offer that sounds too good to be true most likely is a trick or an illusion. ● SALLY BROMPTON

Sudoku

How to play

Fill in the grid, so that every row, every column and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1-9. There is no math involved. You solve the puzzle with reasoning and logic.

*Dream Partner,
I have one Regret ---- Regret not having believed in us ;
.... XOXOXOXO - you only know what you have until you lost it Are you lost or just dissapointed or scared again ??? nothing is impossible ; Shall we ? :)*
FOREVER LOVING YOU

*Sow low,
We have had a rough time
last month, but we made it through together. I hope we stay strong and can work through everything. There has been huge improvement in our relationship. I love u so muchy. Happy 1 year and
10 months. SOW POW

*Handsome,
It's been years since I've last seen you and you still sneak into my thoughts. You are my only "what if" but not my regret, hope you found your good place as I am finding mine. FT. SASK GIRL
